

Container Gardens In Hand-Crafted Pots

Urban FarmGirls designs one-of-a-kind container gardens in hand-crafted pots. Container gardens are suitable for indoor and outdoor growing, and feature drought-tolerant perennials (succulents and other water-wise plants). We also custom design edible container gardens, featuring vegetables and herbs. The highest quality plants and soils from local nurseries and suppliers are used in all our gardens. A sample list of plants used can be found on our web site at www.urbanfarmgirls.com. We welcome custom orders and can design a container specific to your size requirements. Please call us for a quote.

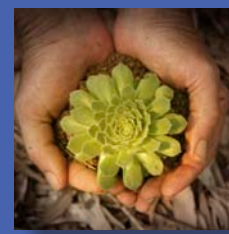

Based in San Francisco, Urban FarmGirls is the dream and vision of local artist Tina Calloway. Our mission is to encourage the use of sustainable gardening practices in keeping with the natural ecology of the San Francisco Bay Area. By bringing beautiful container gardens to home and public spaces, Urban FarmGirls bridges earth-friendly horticulture with urban design.

Tina Calloway is an accomplished artist with formal training in painting and design. She has taught art and food gardening courses at the Cedars of Marin Textile Art Center in San Rafael, and encaustic painting workshops throughout San Francisco. She stumbled upon the name for Urban FarmGirls while gardening with her daughter in the Bernal Heights Community Garden.

Urban FarmGirls' faux-stone pots are hand-molded out of cement, perlite, peat moss and reclaimed fibers in our studio in San Francisco's Sunset District. Lightweight and durable, they are also porous for good drainage, and are suitable for indoor and outdoor use. Each unique container blends artistic design with urban function, and is available in two styles. Our Stone line presents your plants in a bed resembling natural stone. The Earth line infuses organic materials such as pebbles and twigs to create deeper textures that resonate with your home and garden. Each series is available in a variety of shapes and sizes, and comes in terra cotta, slate, sienna, moss green and natural. Colors may be combined for a two-tone effect.

We welcome custom orders, and will design containers to most specifications.
